Overview

Homestead Airlines is designed to serve as a discount airline for traveling throughout California, as well as its neighboring states.

The website is designed to provide a user-friendly experience, emphasizing clean and simple elements for visual appeal. The website was written primarily in HTML5, CSS3, and JS version 1.8.5, using VSCode version 1.42.1. The website was tested using Google Chrome, Safari, an iPhone 7 Plus, and an iPhone SE.

Website Structure:
Homestead Airlines' website consists of 6 different pages. The pages are labeled as the following:
- Home Page
    - The Home Page provides information about the benefits of flying with Homestead Airlines as well as basic information about the frequent flyer program. Additionally, the Home Page provides a direct button to book flights, as well as a footer where visitors can leave contact information and access social media links.
- Book
    - The "Book" page allows customers to book their flights through Homestead Airlines. Customers fill out a form regarding flight and customer information, then can book their flight. The form automatically clears after the form is submitted.

- Airline Information
    - The "Airline Information" page consists of information about Homestead Airlines, including the company's mission and goals.
- Frequent Flyer Program
    - The "Frequent Flyer Program" page contains more information about HomePlus points and how they can be redeemed for rewards.
- Job Application
    - The "Job Application" page is where visitors can apply for jobs at Homestead Airlines. Current job openings include Pilots, Flight Attendants, and Flight Technicians. The Job Application page consists of descriptions for each of these positions, including benefits and requirements for each job. After filling out their application below and submitting their request, applicants are redirected to a confirmation page.
- Job Applied
    - The "Job Applied" page confirms that an applicant has successfully applied for a job through our "Job Application" page.
